Papers on Racial Discrimination

Volume 1
The CERD Papers

Ganesh Chand
Editor

Fiji Institute of Applied Studies
Lautoka
This book is intended to raise awareness of readers on the UN's Declaration on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination. As such, this book may be reproduced, stored in a retrieval system, or transmitted in any form or by any means, electronic, mechanical, photocopying, recording, or otherwise.

The production of this book was funded by a grant from the Canadian International Development Agency.
Contents

Preface v

Part I: The UN Founding Documents

1 United Nations Declaration on the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination 1

2 International Convention on the Elimination of all Forms of Racial Discrimination 7

Part II: Reports on Fiji, 1973-2002

3 Reservation by Fiji, 1973 23

4 Reports on Fiji, 1973-2002 27

Part III: NGO Papers and Government Reports, 2003

5 Submission to the Fiji Country Report - ECREA 41

6 Submission to the Government - Interfaith Search Fiji 77

7 Submission to CERD - NGO Coalition of Human Rights 83

8 Discriminatory Policies & Practices - National Farmers Union 147

9 Fiji’s Official report - Government of Fiji 175

10 Further Submission - National Farmers Union 229

11 Commentary on the Government Report – NGO Coalition 235

12 Supplementary Report – Government of Fiji 269

13 CERD Queries to Government; Government’s Response 319

Part IV: CERD Conclusions and Implementation

14 Concluding Observations of the CERD 325

15 Joint Statement from Talanoa Session 333

16 Standing Committee on Human Rights & Equal Opportunities 335

Appendix I: CERD Record on Fiji, 1996 339

References 343
Preface

In March 2003, I was asked by the National Farmers Union to represent it at the UN’s Committee for the Elimination of All Forms of Racial Discrimination (CERD) meeting which was to hear Fiji’s report and deliberate on racial discrimination in Fiji. In preparation for my participation, I tried to locate Fiji’s previous submissions to CERD and CERD deliberations on Fiji. Unfortunately, there was no such document within the public domain. Even reputed libraries did not carry materials on CERD, or on racial discrimination in Fiji.

Despite my intention to publish my own research on race relations in Fiji, until now, I let other pressing academic as well as non-academic matters take precedence over this.

The CERD meeting, and the unavailability of any serious empirical work or documentation on race relations in Fiji, at least until 2003, provided an incentive for me to put together not only this volume of papers, but also two other volumes on racial discrimination.

This volume comprises documents essentially produced by the government, the UN’s CERD, and NGOs on racial discrimination. While some documents included here have been edited for brevity, the gist of each paper has been maintained.

The second volume will continue in the same tradition – with numerous additional official, NGO and research documents which have remained unpublished so far. The third volume will provide updated empirical work on racial discrimination in Fiji.

This volume would not have been possible had it not been for the kind assistance of the Canadian International Development Agency, which kindly agreed to sponsor a large part of this project. The NGOs also kindly allowed me the use of their papers and encouraged me to complete this project. The UN papers are public domain documents. Under the ICERD, the government’s official documents are also to be within the public domain.

All these documents have been included in this volume with the intention that not only could these be found at one source by any researcher or writer on the subject, but also so as to provide an educational resource to the people of Fiji on racial discrimination. For the people of Fiji, the documents would serve as a cold reminder that human civilisation no longer tolerates racial discrimination in any form.

Ganesh Chand
June 2005